Additional Compensation for Army Aviators Probable.

MATTER BEING CONSIDERED

Operators Also Contemplated. Question Goes to Congress.

Increased pay for army aviators is likely to be one outcome of the accident at San Antonio, Tex., that resulted in the death of Lieut. G. B. M. No provision has been made in the American army for any special compensation to aviation officers, notwithstanding which there are many more applications on file oor detail to the flying squad than can possibly be filled. It will take a special act of Congress to give the increased pay, but the Secretary of War has the matter under considera-

At present foreign service pay is the only extra pay that a soldier draws in the army. This is 10 per cent of his regular pay, and enlistment served outside the mainland counts as double time on the total of thirty years necessary for retirement. This inducement is enough to make the foreign service detail eagerly sought, as an enlisted man, if he serves ten years in this country and ten years abroad, is eligible for retire-ment on three-quarters pay, and is then at an age when, with his army training and a good conduct record behind him. he can always get a good job in addition to his retired pay. With the same inducements applying to aviators, in addition to the increased pay, it is likely that there will be a rush for the places.

Officers Only Wanted.

At present there is no intention of training anything but commissioned officers as aviators, and there are enough of the younger officers who are anxious for the detail. There are but four qualified aviators in the army, but it is intended soon to increase the number consider-

REAL SPRING WEATHER.

75 for Twenty-Four Hours.

Real, genuinely balmy Washington spring weather is promised by the weather bureau for this evening and tomorrow. The temperature tonight will probably go down to 60 degrees, and tomorrow it will probably not rise above 75 degrees, according to the forecaster. So far as the weather map indicates, there is no rain in sight for thirty-six hours. Both this evening and tomorrow will be fair, with moderate northerly winds. The warm wave in the east, said the forecaster, was broken, or, at least, dis-sipated, by north to northwest winds blowing from an area of high barometer over the great lakes. tacked upon constitutional grounds, its reasonableness and the fact that it tends toward class legislation. The case was continued until the latter part of May, by mutual consent, to await the actual imposition of the tax. The law went into effect May 1.
